

Colleagues,

I am thrilled to announce the appointment of Dr. Jodie Rappe as chief medical officer and patient safety officer of Beaumont, Grosse Pointe effective July 7.

Dr. Rappe is a Family Medicine physician who currently practices in St. Clair Shores and serves as associate program director and medical director of the Family Medicine residency program at Beaumont, Grosse Pointe. She is also an assistant professor at the Oakland University William Beaumont School of Medicine. She received her undergraduate degree from Southwestern University in Georgetown, Texas and went on to receive a master of arts degree from Texas State University with a focus on parasitology.

Dr. Rappe also obtained a master of science degree from Texas A&M University before graduating medical school at the Uniformed Services University of Health Sciences where she currently serves as faculty.

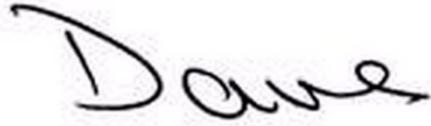

Dr. Rappe completed her Family Medicine residency at Camp Pendleton Naval Hospital in California and served an additional 12 years in the U.S. Navy. During that time, she held multiple leadership roles such as chair of Family Medicine, branch head of Primary Care clinics, chair of Credentialing and assistant director of Medical Services while working at multiple locations in California and Japan.

She is replacing Dr. Nick Gilpin, who is stepping down as chief medical officer after more than three years in the role. He will continue serving in his systemwide role of director of Epidemiology and Infection Prevention. Dr. Gilpin will also become Beaumont, Royal Oak's medical director for hospital Epidemiology and Infection Prevention.

Please join me in welcoming Dr. Rappe to her new roles. I have the utmost confidence in her experience and expertise and know she will lead Beaumont, Grosse Pointe to further success in this ever-changing world of health care. Also, let's thank Dr. Gilpin for his service to Beaumont, Grosse Pointe, its patients and the community.

Best,
